Women's Health and Inflammation: Controlling Inflammation for a Healthier You

Thursday, January 13, 2022
6:30 - 7:45 p.m. EST

This session will help explain the connection between inflammation and overall health. This session will also help you to manage inflammation or an ongoing condition in order to have the safest pregnancy for you.

During this session, participants will be able to:

- Explain the impact of inflammation and health.
- Identify autoimmune diseases and how they impact women in their reproductive years.
- Understand the importance of planning pregnancy for those who live with an ongoing condition.
- Understand the impact of COVID-19 on pregnancy.

Webinar Goal: To understand inflammation and its impact on pregnancy

Registration is free and open. Registration closes at noon on Thursday, January 13, 2022. Register at <https://niehs.nih.gov/womenshealthawareness>. The zoom link will be provided prior to the webinar.
